An Appreciation

Well, we have seen her—we have heard her. Who? Why, Peg, of course. "Peg o' My Heart" came to town last Tuesday. Now, "Peg o' My Heart" is the name of a play; "Peg" is the heart of the play; and Peg is who wins all hearts. In fact, that is what she did to us. We made her acquaintance across the footlights, and now we do not wonder at the endearing name she bears. "Ven, vidi, vincit," exclaimed Julius Caesar of old. And today "Peg o' My Heart" can say, with no less truth, "I came, I saw, I conquered."

A company of such excellent calibre as that of the players with whose presence we have this week been honored is seen but too seldom in these parts. Such a visit affords a rare treat and an opportunity not to be missed. The play is that on the recent occasion the house was not more nearly filled to capacity. We have been given a worthy presentation by a strong cast; and if, in this case, because of her faithful interpretation and consummate artistry, we single out the leading lady for special mention, no one, assuredly, will begrudge her the honor.

The play as a whole—what shall we say of it? It is a simple story, and true to life. Outstanding as the points of a triangle are its healthy philosophy of life, its rich, wholesome Irish humor, and its sweet, heart-compelling touches of pathos. In those features lies the strength of its appeal. It is a play that grips—a play, moreover, that leaves a good taste in the mouth. As we saw and heard it the other evening, there was in it nothing that anyone would need to be ashamed of, and much that we would all like to hold fast to in our minds and hearts. If anyone could see and hear that play, and then, with the spell of it upon him, deliberately go out and do a mean act, that person must surely be an abnormal specimen of humanity. One came away glad that he went, and convinced that he wouldn't have missed it for a great deal. Let us have more of this stamp of play, and the world will be the better and the happier for it.

We thank you, Peg. You made us laugh; and for that we are glad. We laughed spontaneously, heartily, even recklessly—out of pure good humor and wholesome sympathy with your own four two-foot spirit and irrepressible Irish regency. Did you make us cry? For that also we thank you. What if the eyes became moist sometimes, and the breath sometimes faltered? All that was but the way in which we answered your appeal to that which is ever the noblest in man and the purest in woman. Come again, Peg, we would say. Come again as often as you like; and again as often we shall accord you an Irish welcome.

—R. H. GRAY.

Thieves Are Captured

A second raid was made by the burglars on Friday night of last week, when the store of the Blaimore Hardware Co. was entered through side door, and a quantity of ammunition and other articles taken. The same gang continued to the store of J. Handley, where entrance was made from the head of a stairway at the back, and a quantity of groceries were stolen. The next victim was the soft drinks parlor of M. Buesse, from which a quantity of tobacco, cigarettes, etc., was taken. On Saturday night, the chicken house of Cyr & Smith was broken into and twelve Plymouth Rock chickens were taken therefrom, and three chickens disappeared from the coop of Mrs. Stewart on Twelfth Avenue. The mounted police, with assistance of special detectives, searched a number of houses in town, and while so doing the town sleuth, Archie McLeod, "got a hunch" that something out of the ordinary was doing around York Creek and proceeded to investigate. As a result of his investigation practically all of the stolen goods were located, and a wasp's nest nearby served as a tracer to a party who had been suffering for some days from a sink. One of the boys was placed on the mat and made a brief confession, and the other gave himself up to Chief McLeod on Wednesday evening, and both were handed over to the mounted police. The boys were arraigned before Inspector Jungel on Thursday and were sent up for trial and taken to Macleod last night.

Blaimore Red Cross

Remember the annual meeting to be held in Central Union church on Thursday, October 5th, at 7:30 p.m. A most hearty invitation is extended to everyone. A collection will be taken for the prisoners of war fund.

At the weekly meeting held on September 19th, $150 was voted for the general fund, Calgary; also $50 to the Christmas stocking fund, these stockings being a special gift from the Canadian Red Cross Society to Canadians in hospital at Christmas. Any workers having finished socks on hand are requested to leave with Mrs. Carter not later than the last day of September.

In future all Red Cross supplies will be kept in the sewing room at the public school and work will only be given out on Tuesdays. Workers are asked to make note of this.

An special committee meeting September 19th, Miss Walsh was appointed secretary. Treasurer, local ladies, brought a special gift from the Canadian Red Cross Society to Canadians in hospital at Christmas. Any workers having finished socks on hand are requested to leave with Mrs. Carter not later than the last day of September.

Anglican Church

Those who were present at the Anglican Church services on Sunday last will long remember the day with pleasure, it was the occasion of the visit of His Lordship the Bishop of Calgary.

Arriving in Blaimore by the morning train the Bishop preached at the morning service at 11 o'clock and afterwards celebrated Holy Communion. At the conclusion of the sermon, the Bishop congratulated the members upon the recent appearance of the church and expressed his pleasure at seeing the many things which had been given for use in the service of the church.

During the afternoon the Bishop proceeded to Coleman where local ladies presented him with a beautiful silver chalice. The service was most impressive and the words of the Bishop addressed principally to those to be confirmed will not soon be forgotten. The churches at Blaimore and Coleman were beautifully decorated for the occasion.

During his stay in Blaimore, the Bishop was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Wright, and in Coleman, of Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Gray. His Lordship returned by the evening train to Calgary and before leaving said how very much he had enjoyed his visit and how pleased he was with the work going on both in Blaimore and Coleman.

Service next Sunday:—
Morning Prayer at 11 a.m. conducted by the Rev. H. Clay, who will preach on the subject "The Ministry of the Word."
Celebration of Holy Communion after Morning Prayer.
Sunday school as usual at 2:30 p.m.
A hearty welcome to all.

Military Ten Commandments

Besides verse production in the trenches British soldiers, with a literary inclination, take to writing fairy tales, comic stories, parodies on German "Kultur," and Open Letters addressed to such worthies as the Crown Prince, von Hindenberg, and the Kaiser.

The other day an officer tried his hand at "improving" the ten Commandments; the nature of the attempt will be gleaned from four of the most popular "laws":

Thou shalt kill only Huns, slugs, lice, rats and other vermin which frequent dugouts.

Thou shalt not adulterate thy section's rum ration.

Thou shalt not bear false witness in the Orderly Room.

Thou shalt not covet the A.S.C.'s job, thou shalt not covet the A.S.C.'s pay, nor his motor, nor his wagon, nor his tent, nor his bilkins, nor his horse, nor his ass, nor any other cushy (soft) thing that is his.

The Patriotic Honor Roll

If an honor roll of those communities which have done best for the Patriotic Fund were to be established, the village of Erskine would surely merit a prominent place on it. With a population of somewhat less than 200, Erskine has contributed to the Patriotic Fund since the first of February the sum of $768.50. It is perhaps not wise to make comparisons, as no doubt there are other places with similarly creditable showings, but if every locality responded as Erskine has done, there would be no problem about raising the Patriotic Fund. How many communities will move over into the Erskine class when the big campaign starts shortly?

Coleman Editor Still Alive

The article below appeared in an issue of the Coleman Bulletin which appeared on Monday of this week. In order that the reading public may have an opportunity of seeing it, we reproduce it in full, so that they may be given another opportunity to size up the contemptible individual who is trying to control the destinies of the newspaper at Coleman and treat the people of this town with the same evil as was tolerated for a short period by the citizens of Pincher Creek. We take pleasure at any time in reproducing any knock the editor of The Bulletin feels disposed to hand out, for no greater favor could our esteemed contemporary confer upon us.

In regard to the item to which this notorious pen warbler takes exception, we must say that it contains absolute facts, and it was in the best interests of the people of The Pass in general that we were obliged to make reference to what the public considered a wasteful expenditure of money. The roads in this district are needed every cent that can be raised to speed up them and for every day's wage it is reasonable to expect at least the result of a full day's work.

As far as Coleman is concerned, it is only an individual that the narrow opinion of Editor Norman who could ever conceive such an idea. We have on one or two previous occasions challenged Editor Norman or any citizen of Coleman to prove one instance where we have ever attempted to knock Coleman as a town, and that challenge hasn't been open.

Here begins Editor Norman's editorial:

The following item appeared in a recent issue of the Blairmore Enterprise: "The department of public works should perhaps be commended for their plans to let the road to the west of the town of Coleman be paved. A Coleman man has been appointed to work on the road. The outside leave Coleman on or about 8 a.m. and reach the site of operation about 10, leaving for home again about 4 p.m. The work that is being accomplished in a fortnight by this method, could be accomplished by less men, locally, in a week. The public are paying dearly for this work, and should rise in protest against this scheme."

The Enterprise would be quite justified in drawing attention to any apparent dishonesty on the part of the men who are in the employ of the Government, but in doing so it should adhere to facts and not rush off into such wild and senseless exaggeration. In this instance it appears to be true that the men have been travelling to and from their work on the Government's time, but they do not leave Coleman at eight o'clock in the morning, neither do they leave their work at four in the afternoon. Misrepresentation of this sort strikes me as a discreditable and in this case it is unnecessary and so glaring that it clearly and unerringly points the way to the real cause of The Enterprise's growth.

In the past our contemporary has evidenced little or no concern as to how public funds were being expended. Nor is it concerned now. The cause of its grievance is to be found in the fact that a Coleman man has been engaged to keep the roads through The Pass in repair. That is where the shoe pinches—and it hurts so much that you can hear the agonized groans of this chronic knocker in every line of the above item. It was ever thus.

"No good thing can come from Coleman."

Why, this knock artist is so bitter against our busy city that he has even put the Coleman girls in the discard. Every time we see the name "Coleman" in print, or notes any sign of Coleman enterprise in any form he appears to be seized with a paroxysm of frenzy and bitterness. It is most pitiful.

In this particular case, however, on two rather important points we should have been overlooked. The slide road has been in existence for about a decade, and it has never been satisfactory. Also, the town of Blairmore draws considerable trade from points over the slide, while Coleman gets very little, if any.

Under these conditions one would expect to see the Enterprise leading an agitation for a new or an improved road over the slide. But do we? Nothing of the kind. Never a word from that source. Instead, when improvements are being made to that road—nay, more, when what is virtually the main street of Blairmore is being repaired by the Government—almost entirely as a result of the exertions and enterprise of Coleman citizens, the Enterprise—what a misnomer—ignores its little old hammer and commences to knock. We suppose that if it was generally known that the same Coleman influence and the same Coleman enterprise, which is situated solely by a desire to obtain a first-class road through The Pass, was now agitating for a new road over the slide, north of the track, our contemporary would get a bigger hammer and knock still harder.

The Bulletin is convinced, however, that the Enterprise speaks only for itself—and one editor. Otherwise, we would suggest that the same Coleman enterprise and the same Coleman influence which has secured the repairing by Coleman men of a BLAIRMORE road could perhaps have the men transferred to the road end of The Pass, where there is need of teams and laborers—that is, if the presence of Coleman road makers in the Blairmore landscape has such a depressing influence on the aesthetic sensibilities of the man who wields the hammer on the Blairmore Enterprise.

Thus ends the editorial.

Distribution of Seed Grain and Potatoes

By instructions of the Hon. Minister of Agriculture a distribution of superior sorts of grain and potatoes will be made during the coming winter and spring to Canadian farmers. The samples for general distribution will consist of spring wheat (about 5 lbs.), white oats (about 4 lbs.), barley (about 5 lbs.), and field peas (about 5 lbs.). These will be sent out from Ottawa. A distribution of potatoes in samples of about 3 lbs. will be carried out from several of the experimental farms, the Central Farm at Ottawa supplying only the provinces of Ontario and Quebec. All samples will be sent free by mail.

Only one sample of grain and one of potatoes can be sent to each farm. As the supply of seed is limited, farmers are advised to apply early. Requests received after the end of December will probably be too late. Anyone desiring a sample should write (post free) to the Dominion Cereals, Experiments Farm, Ottawa, for an application blank.

Keep Your Own Town Busy

Whenever your personal habits and customs tend to decrease the commercial prosperity of your home city and surrounding country, your own home in turn will be bound to suffer depreciation. Any policy which has tendency to injure your neighbor will in time react, and you will have to bear your share of the damage.

What would be the result if everybody in your town and community were to send away from home and purchase all their supplies? You know it's a poor rule that won't prove, and if it is a good rule it is one that should be equally profitable to all. Suppose you all did, what would follow? All the fine large stores in your own town would close and you would witness a daily decrease in population and an enormous shrinking in real estate values. And then you'd have a few nice little problems to solve.

Keep the stores in your city busy. Make them better by boosting for them and pushing for home trade all you can, and be proud of your own town. Anything you can possibly do to increase the volume of business done in your community is bound to react to your own individual benefit, because increased business volume means increased property values, which in turn means larger tax returns, and the consequent benefits which follow in every progressive community.

Some people are of the prejudiced opinion that if they spend their money at home it simply goes to make one of the local merchants a little richer, and would have absolutely no other results. They think that all movements to encourage a spirit of loyalty to home institutions are based on the purely selfish interests of the merchants promoting the campaign, who want to gather all the money in sight for their own individual benefit.

They are unable to see that better business conditions in their town would in reality work just the other way. Once the word went abroad that there was a live home-trade city, progressive and up-to-date merchants from all over the country would seek occasions there to share in the prosperity created by a loyal devotion to the spirit of home patronage; thus creating new competition which could only tend to lower rather than increase the profits of the merchants who started the ball rolling—Calgary Herald.

Mr. and Mrs. George Dewar have returned home from Medicine Hat, after spending several days there.

Several local Masons motored to Lethbridge on Monday evening to attend lodge there, and returned home same night.

Mr. and Mrs. Fink, of Tennessee district, drove to Pincher City to attend the sale at the Alexandra hotel on Saturday.

Mrs. J. Morgan, who has been ailing for some time, was able to pay a visit to town on Wednesday. Mrs. Morgan's niece accompanied her.

There has been some good pieces of volunteer wheat taken off land here that could not, from different reasons, have been seeded last spring.

Miss Martha Willoughby, of Burnie, is staying with her sister, Mrs. E. McEwen, that she may be enabled to attend the Cowley school for another term.

Mrs. P. Fortier and family spent this week end in Lethbridge, visiting with their daughter, Miss A. Fortier, who has recently returned from a three years' stay in the old country, and who is now second employed as a teacher at Lethbridge.

The Doukhobors have collected all the old straw stacks on their land near here into one well built stack, which will be loaded at leisure and shipped to B.C., where it will be converted into manure under horses and cattle for their B.C. lands. This is better for Canada than burning it. We never get too old to learn.

Four degrees of frost were registered at Calgary on Thursday morning of last week.

John Allen, a colored porter on the C.P.R., was fined $50 for bringing liquor in from British Columbia.

It is reported that R. B. Bennett is to succeed Edward Michener as the leader of the Conservative party for Alberta.

One of the porters on a C.P.R. passenger train, on seeing a copy of the last issue of the Coleman Bulletin and its "brill" reference to us, laughed until he was black in the face.

A Russian general is named Ivanoff, which would be more appropriate for a hun at the present time—"I've enough."

Bellevue Happenings

James Haddad was a visitor to Fernie last week end.

Lieut. Struble is down from Sarcee on a visit to his sister.

Mrs. J. Robertson went to Fernie this week on a brief visit.

H. V. Meredith, president of the Bank of Montreal, has been recommended by His Royal Highness the Duke of Connaught as a baronet.

W. Shaw, of Lethbridge, and P. J. Doyle, of Calgary, were in town on Tuesday on a visit of inspection of The Pass branches of P. Burns & Co.

J. L. Peacock, of Montana, recently sold R. C. Harvey, of Chin Couler, 8,500 sheep for $80,000.00. Mr. Harvey is Canada's largest sheep owner, having about 31,000 head. His clip this year was 206,000 pounds, for which he would receive $65,920.

A certain English Lord Mayor who was often breathlessly unconventional in his speech, was presiding at a dinner one evening, and as the second course was being served he suddenly jumped to his feet and exclaimed: "O—gentlemen, we neglected to say grace!"

In a recent issue the Blairmore Enterprise pays the Government a left-handed compliment for "trying to improve conditions for 'pedestrians' in the Crown's West Pass." Somebody should present the editor with a dictionary. Or does he imagine that every person travels around as he does, and as he operates his principal plant—"by hand?"—Coleman Bulletin.

In connection with the above, we wish to inform Editor Norman that when we employ other means of conveyance we pay for it, and that no lively man has a bill to collect from us—Ed.

An item in a London newspaper recently spoke of 20,000 soldiers, "the pick of Canada from the towns and prairies between British Columbia and Vancouver," which was a geographical error, and which, furthermore, goes to prove that they make mistakes in English newspapers as they do in Canadian, and those of other countries, too. The reporter or proof-reader must be from New Brunswick.

People in the vicinity of Bouvaine Lake, near Pincher Creek, have been missing calves and yearlings for some time and have since concluded that their losses were due to a bear.

A trap was, therefore, set by Fred Thierault and one day last week Bruin stepped therein. He proved to be a 380 pounder and was shot by Mr. King. Ambrose and Co., of the town took over the carcass and bear steak has been the vogue this week.

Early last year a patriotic grocer in a small Scottish village decided that either he or his assistant must go. And as he himself was single, his mother and sisters being well provided for from their shares in the shop, he thought he was the more suited. Mackay, the assistant, agreed promptly, and presently found himself in command of the business. But a few months later the master was dumbfounded to meet his late assistant, attired in khaki, "somewhere in France." "Hie, mon," he said angrily, "did I not tell ye to stay at home in charge o' ma shop?" "So thocht at the time, master," replied Mackay, "but I aune fun'oot it wina only the shop I was in charge o', but a' yer women folk, 'Man,' yes I tae maesell, 'gin ye've got to fecht, gaun, fecht someone ye can hit. So I jined."

Ruth K. Taylor, who attempted to prove she did not wear high-heeled shoes when she fell and sustained a broken leg while passing the fire station at Spokane last winter, was allowed no damages in the court of Judge Sullivan last week. The jury refused damages on the grounds that Mrs. Taylor's shoe heels were high, and that she was guilty of contributory negligence in walking over the walk when she was able to observe the icy condition.

Mrs. Taylor sued to recover $12,500. She introduced a shoe in evidence in an effort to prove she did not wear high-heeled shoes.

In a letter received this week from Bryce Miller, he refers to the several deaths he is supposed to have died and the "many" other lives he has yet to live, and states that when he gets to Europe he will be able to sell each of those lives in a way becoming a British soldier and will thereby be doing his little bit. Bryce is connected with one of the battalions at Sarcee and hopes soon to go overseas. He was amused at seeing the report of his funeral recorded on several occasions during the past few years, and says he will try and see that we do not have occasion to chronicle his demise again for a little while.

During his discourse on Sunday evening last, Rev. Alex. Ester, of Calgary, made the following reference to the question of free hospitals: "Some were describing the movement as that which could be called a 'Good Samaritan' movement. As he saw it, people who were advocating free hospitals were those who were willing to have Good Samaritan acts done, and then dip down into someone else's pocket—no matter whose, rich or poor—to pay the bill. A free hospital regime could only include Good Samaritan acts when an individual desiring to perform a worthy part would dig down into his own pocket to pay the bills of a sick brother sent to the hospital for care, without encumbering others who were perhaps unable to bear the burden."
